INSPIRING YOUNG MINDS

In spite of the unsettling and challenging situations that the Covid-19 pandemic brought along, the academic advancements and learning process of the students have been consistently maintained. Adjusting to various Covid related restrictions coupled with new learning/teaching methods have posed immense challenge to the students as well as the teachers. However, the teaching faculty has been tirelessly making all efforts to inspire and motivate the students in pursuing and achieving their academic responsibilities and goals. The unwavering support and effort of the teaching faculty in easing the anxiety and distress of the students to rebuild their academic lives and mental resilience to achieve their objective continues.

Besides various articles by students and teachers, this edition of the magazine also highlights the events and activities undertaken by different committees, cells and student council in the current academic year.

The editorial team would like to sincerely appreciate all the contributors and hope that this edition will encourage many more students to use the college magazine as a platform to express their creativity.

DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

Message

A magazine is a documentation that records the academia of an institute and reveals the creative genius of the students.

I am delighted to learn that Kohima College, Kohima is bringing out the 2022 edition of its annual magazine with the theme, "Inspiring Creative Minds for a Better Future".

The pandemic completely transformed our lives. We were confined to our homes and the future felt uncertain. Today, the static phase of COVID-19 looks to be ending and we are gearing up to myriad challenges. We lived through a significant history. In a way, the pandemic gave an opportunity world-wide to rethink and reassess the strategies of life. Many took to writing, particularly students who unaware that decades from now, future historians may look back on the articles to study life of COVID-19 quarantines.

Writing is deeply therapeutic. In expressing our thoughts, we define life. It makes us reflect on the past and form new ideas.

As we march ahead inspiring creative minds, may we create fertile ground for a wholesome better world.

FROM THE PRINCIPAL'S DESK

Message

It is my great pleasure to greet you on the publication of the 55th edition of the Kohima College Annual Magazine. With the Covid-19 pandemic and lockdowns continuing to affect us for yet another year, we have all had to go through many unforeseen challenges and many amongst us have suffered deep personal losses. Yet, it has been most reassuring that even in the face of such adversity, our collective spirit of resilience and hope for better days have continued to shine through.

It has been a humbling experience to see how we have risen to each challenge and have been able to excel in all spheres. How encouraging it has been to witness many remarkable instances of courage, integrity and responsibility despite the setbacks! For this, I sincerely thank all the members of the faculty, staff and students of the KCK family who have co-operated with the vision and goals that we had set before us. May we continue to work together and give our very best even in the days to come!

I extend my heartfelt congratulations to the Magazine Committee for all their efforts. The theme "Inspiring Creative Minds for a Better Future" could not have been more apt as we poise ourselves for the future with renewed strength and confidence.

Long live KCK.

CAREER GUIDANCE & COUNSELLING COMMITTEE

This Career Guidance & Counselling Programme was organised by the Student Counselling, Mentoring & Career Guidance Cell (SCMGC), Kohima College Kohima in collaboration with the IQAC. Three resource person were invited for the programme: Lichan Humtsoe, Founder & CEO Été Coffee; Sashi Wapang Lanu (IRS) Additional Commissioner, Central GST, Dimapur; Ayieno Kechü, Media Officer to CM, Nagaland. The programme started with a welcome address and introduction by Rukuovonuo Dozo, Assistant Professor, Dept. of History and Secretary, SCMGC Cell. The Q&A session was moderated by Ngiplon Rachel Chohwanglim, Asst. Prof. & HOD, Dept. of Commerce who also proposed the vote of thanks.

The programme was organised for the students of 6th semester, BA and B.Com. The primary objective of the programme was to give orientation to the graduating students on future career prospects and avenues. The panellist in the programme came from varied professional backgrounds which made the conversation meaningfully engaging and insightful. Each speaker spoke for 20 minutes sharing their individual and unique journey to success. The students were able to hear perspective from both the government and the private sectors. The three speakers spoke on certain broad themes such as Entrepreneurship, civil services (UPSC/NPSC), Mass Communication and Media production, working in Multinational companies, such as, google and youtube. The talk was followed by Q&A sessions where many students actively participated. Most questions were on business start-up, entrepreneurship and civil services. The resource persons delineated all questions addressed to them resulting in intellectually stimulating conversations.

The programme was an engaging and enlightening experience for the students. A total of 293 students attended the programme,

HOSTEL COMMITTEE

The hostel committee oversees the functioning of the hostel. It looks into the matters such as admission, selection and maintenance and tries to address the grievances of the hostellers.

During the pandemic as the government imposed SOP for the educational institutions hostels for both the Girls' and Boys' were suspended. Hostels re-opened after the pandemic in the month of November 2021. A cleanliness drive and social work was carried out in both the hostels. The boys' hostellers comprising thirty students gave a helping hand in cleaning the entrance of the college on 29th Nov 2021. A Skill development Program for the girls' hostel was organized on 17th March 2022 at the hostel. The resource person was Ms. Rose Mhashelu a 6th semester student of Kohima College, Kohima. Ms Rose taught the girls how to use crochet to create beautiful and affordable hair bands and clips for girls. She also highlighted how this crochet has helped her to be more financially independent.

A combined fellowship was held on 27th March 2022, at UGC girls' hostel, the speaker was Mr. Kekuozelie, Chaplain Mount Hermon Higher Secondary School who shared his Story – How he encountered Jesus personally. All the boys and girls from both hostels were blessed. More future programs and activities are been planned for both the hostels.

A SHORT-LIVED DATING OF TWO TENYIMIA COWHERDS

There lived a handsome gentleman named Tso-o from a Western Angami village and a beautiful lady named Terhuopudiü from a Northern Angami village in the latter part of the Naga head-hunting era. They were both physically well-built and so charming that everyone was enthralled by them. In a nutshell, they were the heroes and heroines of their respective villages. They worked as cattle tenders or cowherds in their youth.

Tso-o and Terhuopudiü happened to meet one day while tending to their cattle near the farthest reaches of their villages. Despite the fact that they had never met before, they fell in love at first sight. They've been herding their cattle to a secluded pasture on a regular basis since then.

Tso-o and Terhuopudiü happened to meet one day while tending to their cattle near the farthest reaches of their villages. Despite the fact that they had never met before, they fell in love at first sight. Since then, they have herded their cattle to a secluded pasture and sat together on a massive stone known as Roso Tsiepfhe. They used to spend their quality time while their cattle were grazing by talking, singing, sleeping, and joking lovingly until their cattle had eaten their fill. In the event that their cattle went astray, they would alternately go to reverse their cattle back. They used to separate their cattle in the late afternoon, bid each other good night, and return to their farms.

When the parents of Tso-o and Terhuopudiü learned of their children's love affair, they were outraged and severely warned them due to the two villages' warring feud, social and political enmity. Because love is blind, the two lovers continued to love each other passionately despite their parents' objections. Terhuopudiü's brothers planned to murder Tso-o out of shame and rage. They nearly killed Tso-o while he and their sister were sleeping on the giant stone one day, but changed their minds for three reasons: first, Tso's feather-earrings made him so bright and handsome; second, as their sister's lover, Tso-o would not harm them as long as he loved them; and third, they felt pity on their beloved sister.

Tso-o and Terhuopudiü decided to chart their own course for the future after concluding that no force on Earth could separate them. They had set a date for a grand feast in which they would both prepare the best dish and rice-beer they had ever prepared or feasted on. When Tso-parents o's learned of the secret resolution, they informed Tso-peer o's group and asked them to take appropriate action against him. The peer group devised a plan in secret and entrusted it to the girlfriends among them to carry out. On the appointed date, Tso-o was apprehended by his girlfriends and placed under house arrest for the entire day. Some of them supported him by holding his arms.

Meanwhile, Terhuopudiü had spent the entire day waiting for Tso-o at the rendezvous. She began weeping profusely, assuming that her passionate lover Tso-o had cheated her, because she did not know the true situation of her lover, who had been struggling with the girlfriends of his peer group at his home. She cried in the plantain leaf-cup meant for her lover and placed it on the massive stone where they used to sit and sleep. Terhuopudiü left the place full of remorse and dejection when her lover did not appear and it was time to go home.

Tso-o ran as fast as he could towards his waiting lover by late afternoon, but it was too late. Terhuopudiü had already left by the time Tso-o arrived at the rendezvous, but she could be seen from there. Tso-o repeatedly pleaded with Terhuopudiü to return, but she remained deafeningly silent. He looked around and saw only the leaf-cup filled with tears on the giant stone. He called Terhuopudiü again, this time at the top of his voice, saying, "Terhuopudiü, my sweetheart, even if you won't come back again, please turn your face to look at me once." She turned her head slowly and reluctantly to look at her unfortunate lover. Tso-o quickly gulped it down.

Terhuopudiü and Tso-o both married and had children with folks from their respective villages as the years passed. Following that, both families began cultivating jhum fields on their respective lands near the border of their villages. Despite becoming field neighbours, they did not recognise one another due to a reasonable distance between their fields. Tso-o was attending the field with his family on a cloudy day when he was unable to make Seguomi fire due to the bad weather. As a result, he dispatched his minor son to fetch fire from their field neighbours. Because most of their immediate field neighbours were not in their fields that day, Tso-son o's crossed the border and happened to approach Terhuopudiü for the first time.

On seeing the boy, Terhuopudiü closely observed him with curiosity because he seemed to resemble her former lover. She inquired about the boy's father. To her surprise, the boy revealed that his father was Tso-o. Terhuopudiü, having one last chance to chastise Tso-o, said to him, "My dear son, you are also very handsome like your father." But I'm telling you, never, ever, cheat anyone else like your father", She took a string from her cornelian necklace and generously wrapped it around the boy's neck as a token of her unending love. Then she told the boy, "If your father inquires about this necklace, please tell him that it was given to you by a lady named Terhuopudiü." She then handed the boy a few burning fire sticks and bade him goodbye.

Tso-son o's recounted the events to his father when they returned to their own field with a burning fire. Tso-o began to engross and reflect on his dating with Terhuopudiü during his cattle tending days after patiently hearing it. Tso-o left for home too early because he couldn't resume field work that day, much to the chagrin of his unaware wife.

AN INCREDIBLE JOURNEY AT KOHIMA COLLEGE

Some ten years back when I was in standard eight, I first heard about Kohima College and it was said to be one of the finest and the best college in Nagaland with an outstanding academic record. From that very time, my sole wish was to join Kohima College for my bachelor degree. As prayed for, I finally got the chance to join Kohima College after a long gap of four years in the year 2019. When I first joined Kohima College, I was afraid as all the people were new to me. But soon, we all became socialized with each other and started to make a circle of fantastic friends.

I suppose, lucky are those who got the chance to pursue their bachelor degree here in Kohima College. The quality of education imparted here is highly regarded to be the best among all the other institutions across Nagaland. Every assessment, both internal and external are challenging for students whereby it results in decreasing the number of students in every classes. With my personal experience, I have lost many of my friends in different semesters and in different years. Yet, I never regretted choosing Kohima College. I joined with an aim to learn various lessons that I have never learned anywhere at any place.

Also, the college have fulfilled every of my desires and wishes. The college provides quality education to be an upright wellbeing and to be a learned citizen. Apart from quality education, the college offered me to join different co-curricular activities. Accordingly, I grabbed every opportunities offered by the authority and joined various co-curricular activities like NCC, NSS and EU etc. It resulted me in building up my self confidence and leadership quality.

Ever since I joined Kohima College Kohima, every results that I received turn out to be all positive both in academic performance and co-curricular activities. In addition to It, I was also rewarded with Covid Positive result which remained forever as an unforgettable experience of my days at Kohima College. Countless memories and cherishable moments were created in these three years of college life. My days at Kohima College hold a prominent place in my mind. Now , when I look back to my past and recollect all the bygone memories I wonder how time really flies?

“ONE THING I WISH I'D KNOWN BEFORE”

It is understood that most people learn over time but often learning comes too late to be useful.

Time is ticking away in a blink of an eye and it never rewinds back. All the seconds, minutes and hours I screwed up in the past through ignorance, fear and a dumb. I wish I had known what times worth, maybe I have missed many golden opportunities over and again, making fool of myself as if there is no better way to learn and develop.

Heck! It was fun making a fool of myself all those years, but now I realized time is worth though the road seems to be rough and the journey seems to be tough, experiences getting bitter each day.

Over a time I have questioned myself either I can be a cheap imitation of the ideal of the moment or I can be a unique person and make use of time and focus on life goal.

Darwin once said

“A man who dares to waste one hour of time has not discovered the value of life”

Who else could I be, even if I pretend and act at this moment, at the end of the day it's only going to hit back.

But I hope, someday I will make the biggest comeback in life and see myself happy again and I hope that all the baggage's that I am carrying now will not be heavy anymore.

THEY DON'T GET TO DEFINE US

Are you fed up with being labeled as a loser? People telling you that you're too soft for this, or that you're too quiet, or that you're too shy.

However, they have no say in how strong, capable, or assertive we are.

You may not appear to be outstanding at sports, or to be able to run for kilometers, or to be in good physical shape.

You can be strong by wiping away your tears and smiling again, or by folding your arms about yourself and stroking your shoulder and assuring yourself everything will be fine. Sometimes all it takes is you to be someone's shoulder to cry on.

THE LITTLE THINGS

We all live in this very fast moving World. We are all busy because we have dreams to fulfill, expectations to meet, bus to catch for work .Assignments to do and test to study for. All this are important and necessary for life, but however that is not that there is to life.

Slow down a little and breath, live too for the little things this beautiful of ours have to offer. It should be that warm up of coffee and a cold winter warming a putting on that dress, that shirt you hike. If you hike flowers go buy a bouquet of your favorite flower for yourself. Take yourself out for walk. In this busy loud world slow down and talk to yourself. Sit and watch that 5pm sunset, let the sun take with it all, the worries of the day. It can also b you singing and dancing and having a mini concert in your soon with your books and those empty cups lived up in a choir. On just simply you cooking and eating with your loves ones.

And may be try and fall in love with those little things. Falling in love doesn't always have to be with someone. Fall in love with that favorite song of yours. Look at those beautiful color of the sunset and fall in a little. Buy yourself that flower you want to and fall in love with that smile on your face as you do it.

Fall in love with the moon, the stars sun and you'll never be alone. Fall in love with those little moment, fall in love with yourself .That is where the purpose of life lies.

And if I should tell the moon of the light you carry, it would leave every sky bin search of you.

GOODBYES ARE NEVER EASY

Five years passed by
 We made our ways to each other
 You became my second home
 You became an ache to my memory,
 Yet a pearl I never want to let go.
 Graduation is just few months away
 The air is filled with mixed feelings.
 What do we do with the remaining few months?
 Friends vow to keep in touch
 Lovers promise to hold on to their love.
 We are now at the crossroad
 Is this the end of our story ?
 Is this how we must part ways?
 I was young, lively and ambitious
 But now uncertain of what my future holds.
 Scared to face the realities of life,
 Weight of responsibilities to be shouldered upon
 Shall I still carry hopes in my heart
 While remembering the memories we had together?
 Goodbyes are not the end, but a hope, a scope
 And a starlight of tomorrow.
 All I wish for, now, is to have a brighter and a better tomorrow.

LIFE IN NCC

It was not a tour, not a playground.
 It was a training center.

How to behave !
 How to keep discipline!
 How to be strong!
 How to respect!

In camp, home were like my brothers and sisters
 But the common thing was, we were all cadets.
 We came as strangers to one another, now we are Learning as one family.

In NCC, it was a life of hundred percent hardwork,
 Hundred percent enjoyment. And the bond we made
 Will never be broken.
 With a motto, "Unity And Discipline"

A COLD DECEMBER

We had so many plans ahead, the most awaited season of the year
 We finally vowed the vow we were yet to vow
 We had a dream of growing old together
 Our children were eagerly waiting for your arrival
 The joy and responsibilities you carried on your back was our pride
 The bread you earned with your sweat was a golden to us
 Whom should I call 'my love' ?
 Whom should our children call 'daddy' ?
 I'm ageing, my son
 We respect you and called you 'HERO'
 Our innocent hearts believed that we were secured under you, but Alas !
 You are the reason we lost our love
 Indeed it is a cold December.

THE WINTER STROLL

Out in the empty streets, I took myself off
 In order to escape from what we call-"reality".
 In the midst of auras, in a semi-suspended state,
 The cold winter breeze, gently flattered my unkempt mane.
 The winty-air passed through my nostril
 And the smell-should I call it heaven?
 Took me back, in the spring time of life.
 The same cold winter breeze embrace me:
 and blew my uncombed, neck leveled mane.
 I gazed up to my right, where baba stood.
 He was tall and thin and fain;
 With a high forehead, a strong brow and a solid jaw.
 How handsome he is! My cheeks flustered.
 The trees were tangling on each side of the isolated street:
 They looked like they were dancing and the breeze
 sounded like crooning.
 The pretty full moon that shone brightly,
 Followed us till home, daintly.
 "the Moon is a loyal companion and just like the moon
 I'll always walk by your side", baba said,
 Under crescent moon. I'll stand
 Only left with his words alone that still echo in my head!!

MY MIMIC

I felt horns sprouted out from my head
 A debut that led me from me astray
 A Sinisterness in me ever bred
 While those values charging my life decay
 Was it the time I spat a mouthful daggers
 At my bearers for poverty at home?
 Perhaps all their reflects on my angers
 The guardian that left. My demon had come.
 Today again at my mimic I started
 And whispered "shush...quite, you were better"
 She wont stay put and at me she lured
 She haunts me. She wrecks me. A look....a wrecker.
 Yesterday I poured her ink as she cried
 Now she asks for more as her wit runs dry.

MEMORY

Just passed another day,
 But yesterday's torment remain still.
 Thousands of words yearning to say,
 But the mind is to remain still.
 History, unseen but profoundly cherished,
 Engraved deep on the walls of my heart.
 Neither will they fade nor be perished,
 And the memories will need depart.
 Life will cease to exist,
 But worry not, it will form itself into a
 memory.
 Today will become the past,
 Tomorrow, the past will be a memory.
 History will remain forever,
 Engraved on the walls of the heart forever.

“MEMORIES OF HER”

I'd like to say you love me,
 From late nights on the phone;
 Your whispers through the darkness
 When I was all alone.

I'd like to say I love you,
 From book spines on your shelf;
 These songs you played while cooking;
 The way you held yourself.

I'd like to say you love me,
 But that's naïve, perhaps.
 I only had a fragment of your heart-
 I was left to fill empty gaps.

I guess I hardly knew you,
 I doubt I ever will
 But though now you're just a memory,
 I think I love you, still.

MEMORY

What a joyous moment to evocate back as a child-jolly and carefree
 What a memory to gain and revive the track
 Childhood a dream, blooming like a spring tree.
 Tine back as a child, sleeping in mother's cozy lap
 Sheltering in the loving hug of their hands
 Muttering little words; singing and learning to lap
 Playing with mud, dirty, drained in sands.
 Good were those days howling with phlegm hanging,
 Cherishing happiness in hills and valley
 Innocent soul, honest and wise never demanding
 Satisfied to marvelous living-no worry only happy.
 Sun rise and sets, days come and go,
 Life as a child filled with enemy, family was all
 No pain and struggle, taught to follow the flow.
 Childhood a precious memory worth more than gold.
 Today I look out the window, heard birds melody
 Sounding so lively, never fading
 Turned to the mirror, saw myself grow in body
 Reminiscing old good day, bitter in corner translating.

MEMORY

The thought of revisiting my childhood always cheers up and uplift my mind.
As those are the days precious like a diamond.
I remember when our grandparents told us to be in before dark.
So, many memories they tend to cloud my mind.
When good food, favorite TV shows, a chocolates and a sweet kisses from mom....
Dad's home coming, new clothes and new things eagerly waited for
That sweet smile on my face.
The nostalgia of my childhood days are infinite which appears in my dreams every night?
Remember that?
Scared into sleepiness because our young minds didn't know any better. Never ending words to write
I reminisce playing, shouting, quarreling and our laughter echoing on the lanes rebounding of the walls.
Ran out to play whole day nothing will stand.
The way the rain or shine it is fine....
Happily exploring with energy overflowing, cheerful and blissful
Time brings many changes, joys, sorrows, smiles and tears
But memories grow sweeter with the passing of the year.
Afraid the memories would fade away. So, remembering Scenes from our past.
Wishing we could go back
Praying this thought will last Forever.

TO THE DEPRESSED SOULS

I know it is never easy to wake up everyday to deal with your problem over and over again.
 I know you are tired and the worst thing is no one notice it because even though how much you want to share it, you know they wouldn't even get the glimpse of your problem.
 But enough torturing yourself
 Stop being hard on yourself.
 Sometimes put some question on yourself.
 Am I enough for myself?
 Am I strong enough to put that damn thing behind and move on?
Wise man once said, 'If you sit on the question long enough
 The answer will find you'.
 Sometimes you wish to compromise with all that evil thought and be done with it,
 But hey; just know one thing for sure that this is just a tragic side everyone faces.
 And remember, without darkness there can be no meaning of light.
 Just live your today
 And leave your next day for tomorrow
 Do not worry about the day that you don't know would even come.
 Compliment yourself even if no one does because you deserve it.
 And I hope one day you make yourself proud.
 And lastly, to my parting mates,
 I have got something to say
 as we come to this day.
 Remember we are the strongest batch that survived two hard years.
 Losing some of our friends along the way for ever.
 But heaven knows they are safe above
 I can only wish them peace
 We are the luckiest as we got to see this day so,
 Let's not give up on our dreams
 As we step out
 Let's pull ourselves up and fly on.

Aur revoir, dear mate

LOUDSPEAKERS

Was it by the end of May ???
 She stepped her first step into this unfamiliar place, seeing some unfamiliar faces.
 She was scared and lonely
 But as days goes by, everything feels comfortable.
 The unfamiliar place became her second home and those unfamiliar faces, her family.
 There was a time she was all alone but then one by one she met all of em
 And each day became a celebration of life because she had the best buddies with her.
 She knew she can never be sad nor her smile will fade away as she knew she had the most amazing friends who will always make her laugh with their stupid jokes.
 With a gang like em there is no dull day, no depressed moments, no challenging times because it can only be a happy day when all of them are together.
 They enjoyed their days together, had fun together, laughed together and kept each other companied even on bad days, YET the best feeling was laughing all round the corridors, the parking lot and wherever they go.
 Forgetting that there were other classes going on.
 Aaaahhhhh .....
 That feeling of being themselves was one of the best ever.....
 Aaaeeeiiiiiii
 The LOUDSPEAKERS they were.

HEARTH OF THE FAMILY

Daylight was gone; as the Moon rule in its majestic brightness.
 Busy hands held out, to receive someone's calling.
 Strange it was, as mourning could be heard.
 Confused, she inquired, blaming her ear in awfulness,
 While the river flowed at its speed; in many hearts calling.
 A devoted one, instantly lived no more, and the coldness caught her heart.
 She understood not; of what had happened in that wilderness.
 Couldn't accept, but it did really rolled, as death was ruling.
 Looking at the body that was laid, she was torn, moved and hurt.
 A volunteer for all, in total sacrifices and faithfulness.
 For someone's comfort, "no", said never when service has its calling.
 Loved by all, followed by a huge fan, the family's gem and hearth.
 A large crowd gathered, as they share their brokenness;
 In a dark wintry night, chanting Hymns of Heaven's calling.
 Every tear flowed, every mouth called, yet left unheard.
 Many reasoned and questioned, but only said, " God showed His mindfulness".
 On the earth, plans were left undone; in response to Heaven's calling.
 Considered not, the journey of eternity, but awaits the return in its HEARTH.

The students from all semesters (2nd, 4th and 6th) enthusiastically participated in the competition as they got the opportunity to exhibit their talent and skill. The winners of the competition were:

1. 1st Position : Keshi S. Meyo, from BA 6th Semester.
2. 2nd Position : Wonchio Ngullie, from BA 4th semester.
3. 3rd Position : Ghanyale Magh, from BA 6th semester.

DARK TINTED MEMORIES

I'm made of dust and memories
 My past haunts me
 Every stride through the memory lane
 Is a nightmare of its own
 I swim in the sea of memories
 Sea of utter blackness dusted with rose petals.
 I still hold a bunch of good memories
 While half of me is made of haunting recollections.
 I try to keep my hands away from my body
 I'm afraid my dark memories might smear the good ones.
 I'm suddenly 14 again, He takes me to the long gone summers
 And after a thousand tears, I can still taste the past
 They won't be able to fix it
 Even if they cut my head open
 Cause it's my heart that needs fixation A thousand stitches won't heal
 The once golden heart did burn
 And I'm left with a broken sculpture to behold

MEMORY

Memory and Whose field are those? I asked
 Pointing at the vast marshy land.
 Grandpa halted his work and dusted the husk dusk.
 My child, those are the pride of a persevering hand.
 The owner's a sworn man who knows no morn or
 Long ago it was just stones and sand,
 As I interrupted grandpa's singing
 Well.. my child, every bread winner is a father
 How did the man carry those water?
 As providers we are gifted to do things amazing!
 The water falls from the skies like a gift of a daughter.
 And steps are made to save the water from spilling.
 When i grow up, I'll own a bigger field!
 Grandpa looked at me and smiled warmly
 "My child, as you grow older you'll have thousand things to wield.
 No mater the situation, always take them whole heartedly
 And remember to use honesty as your shield".
 I nodded with childish ignorance as he spoke calmly.
 Ah! How time does fly.
 This scene and instructions echoes as I looked over the fields.
 This memories leaves me unguard with dewey-eye.
 As they grow afresh like flower fields
 These are treasures Money can't buy.
 This memory i hold without a guilt.

MEMORY

My heart aches staring at empty pictures
 Scrolling back and forth to look at you, in Piteousgestures
 Yet it is only a memory we capture together
 Then, you didn't even say a goodbye
 Now, you are always a memory gone by.

The fragrance of facial cream 'Garnier' reminds me of you.
 As it melted into my skin
 The tangibly sweet memories of you
 Revived in the touch of flaky skin
 And it moves me to think,
 "Alas! What if you are still here"

Long a time I haven't spoken the word MOM
 And then releasing the word MOM
 Every moment, a dull reminder of your memory
 A memory haunted deep inside of me.
